

Press Release

To: All Media Outlets
From: Jill Trowell, Marketing Chair Air Magic Valley Air show
Date: July 18, 2008
Release: Immediate
Re: Blue Angels Arrival

---

Angels will be soaring over the City of Twin Falls. The Blue Angels will be coming to town next week to perform in the Rob Green Auto Group & Pepsi Present Air Magic Valley Air show. The world renowned Navy Blue Angels will be gracing our skies on Wed. July 23, 2008. Fat Albert their C-130 is scheduled to be here at 11:25. The other 6 jets will arrive shortly after at about 12:30. It has been said they have been known to fly over their welcoming city and blow smoke when they first get to town to say hello and thank you for having them, no guarantees but it has happened many times before. So watch the skies on Wed.

The number 7 jet will be here Tues to ready all thing, from admin, equipment, and briefings with the air show committee, before the main team gets to town.

The Blue Angels will be performing at the show on both Sat & Sun afternoon. On Sat, the Fat Albert C130 will do a JATO (jet assisted take off) launch at the beginning of the Blue Angels part of the show. Eight solid-fuel rocket bottles, four on each side, attached near the rear paratrooper doors thrust the Hercules skyward. Fired simultaneously, the JATO bottles allow the mammoth transport aircraft to takeoff within 1,500 feet, climb at a 45-degree angle, and propel it to an altitude of 1,000 feet in approximately 15 seconds.

Many other performers and teams will be rolling in Wed-Fri.